KPFA Theatre

In this Folio, we are scheduling a considerable variety of dramatic readings and performances. Drama, as you know, is a major program category at KPFA, and it has also been one of the most popular. But it has probably occurred to the many listeners who enjoy these programs that the radio presentation of stage plays rests on problematic foundations. Can a play written for the stage retain anything of its essence in a mere broadcast? There are many who insist that drama is a shell without the action on a stage; without settings, costumes, lights, without the gesture, the actor warmed by audience empathy—all the celebrated magic of the theatre. On the other side stand those who maintain that the soul of the play is the graven word—in the mouth of the actor, disembodied over the air waves, on the printed page, in the mind of the poet.

We invite those bemused by this problem to consider the plays listed in this Folio. They pretty well run the gamut from conversation to violent action. Included are two radio plays from the BBC, Forenoon and Disputed Barricade, as well as a radio play written by a leading modern writer for the stage. The Trial of Lucullus by Bertoldt Brecht. Then there is an early play by Christopher Fry, Boy With A Cart, in which a major role is taken by the chorus. Broadcasting the play will at least eliminate the awkwardness of the chorus on the modern stage. Don Juan in Hell, the separable center of Shaw's Man and Superman, is probably the talkiest chunk of any play of this talkiest of dramatists; it is even called undramatic by hostile critics. Anyhow, the Don Juan has survived, indeed flourished, on concert readings; the listener may judge how well it survives broadcasting. Finally, we are broadcasting Macbeth, a play whose passionate action and hallowed verse insure that adherents of every position will claim it as proof for their point of view. We can not leave this discussion of the plays in this Folio without pointing out that The Trial of Lucullus has been given an added dramatic dimension by being set to music (verbatim) as an opera by Roger Sessions, and put on the stage.

Two of these productions, the Fry play and the Brecht, are the work of local companies; the "Dramateurs" are responsible for the first of these, and "Circus Minimus" for the second. A few weeks ago, we presented four Japanese Noh plays, read by a University of California group. KPFA gets its plays principally from commercial recordings, and special tapes, notably those of the BBC. But the broadcasting of dramatic performances by talented local performers is as important a KPFA function as the broadcasting of concerts by musicians of this area. We hope to encourage more enterprise of this kind.

DRAMA ON THE AIR — Here is a list of the plays in this Folio period:

STUDIO CONCERTS — This Folio period lists three concerts broadcast live from KPFA's studio. On Wednesday, June 29, we will broadcast a piano recital, played by Carl Post. The following Wednesday, July 6, Norma Ruiz will sing Italian and Spanish songs, accompanying herself on the guitar. On Thursday, July 7, Anne Kish, Mary James, Ellen Odhner, and Robert Commanday will come to the station to play a program of classical music for flute and strings.

GREAT BOOKS OF ASIA — With this Folio period, Alan Watts begins a new series of talks for his Sunday night program, "The Realm of Spirit". Mr. Watts' approach to Asian philosophy will be through the great books of the Orient; on June 26, he will introduce the series, and on July 3, he will discuss the first of these great books, "The Upanishads". Mr. Watts, of the American Academy of Asian Studies in San Francisco, has written many books on religious subjects, dealing both with the religions of the East and with Christianity. Most recently, he has published The Supreme Identity (1950) and The Wisdom of Insecurity (1951). Regular listeners to "The Realm of Spirit" should note that on June 26, the first Sunday in this Folio, Mr. Watts' program will be heard at 9:00 instead of at its regular 10:30 position.

PROMOTION NOTE — We should like to engage the help of KPFA's subscribers in chipping away at a persistent obstacle to the growth of listener-sponsorship—the large number of radio listeners who do not own FM sets. Let us explain what we have in mind. During the past few months, as you know, the KPFA promotion staff has concentrated a good deal of effort on the "Granco demonstration", which has proved to be one of the most successful techniques we have hit upon. What we have done is to leave Granco radios in the homes of people interested in the station. After being able to listen to KPFA for a week or so, about one-third of these people have bought FM equipment and become KPFA subscribers. But at this point we have run out of prospects. We know that a majority of KPFA subscribers have friends who would be interested in KPFA's programs if they could hear them. We do not know the names of these potential KPFA listeners; you do. So once more, the station's limited staff is calling on the subscriber for help. If you have friends or acquaintances who might like a week's demonstration of KPFA, without obligation, let us have their names. You can help the station materially in this way.

PROMOTION NOTE — The price of the Granco FM radio, which has been available for some time through this station for $34.95, including a six-months subscription to KPFA, has just been reduced by $2.00. Now the radio, plus the subscription, can be bought for $32.95, including taxes. The distributor's price reduction is, in part, a reflection of the success of KPFA's subscriber-demonstration program. The price of the Granco FM tuner remains at $39.95, including a six-months subscription to KPFA.
